

LTC David Oakley is a FA59 (Strategist) with over nineteen years as a national security professional within the US Army and the Intelligence Community. He currently serves as an assistant professor at National Defense University's College of International Security Affairs (CISA) in Washington, D.C.

Dave was commissioned a Field Artillery officer in December 1998 through Pittsburg State University's Reserve Officer Training Corp. After completing the Field Artillery Officer Basic Course, he served in South Korea as a platoon leader with 6-37 Field Artillery, 2nd Infantry Division. Dave was stationed at Fort Sill, Oklahoma from 1999-2005 where he served in the Field Artillery Training Center as a battery executive officer, detachment commander, assistant brigade S-3, battery commander, and company commander. Dave temporarily left active duty for the Army Reserve after completing company command.

While off active duty, Dave was selected for the Central Intelligence Agency's (CIA) Clandestine Service Trainee (CST) Program as a Staff Operations Officer (SOO). After graduating from the CIA's SOO Certification Course, Dave served within the CIA's Near East Division. Following his CIA service, Dave served as a contractor with the National Counterterrorism Center's Directorate of Strategic Operational Planning.

Dave returned to active duty as a FA59 in late 2007. Following completion of the Basic Strategic Arts Program (BSAP), he served as a planner with the 1st Infantry Division (1ID) at Fort Riley, Kansas. In 2010, he deployed with 1ID to Iraq where he served as a liaison officer to the U.S. Embassy in Baghdad. In 2011, Dave moved to Fort Leavenworth, Kansas where he attended the Command and General Staff School followed by the School of Advanced Military Studies (SAMS). In 2013, Dave departed Fort Leavenworth for Fort Sam Houston, Texas where he served as a planner with 5th Army/Army North until 2015.

Dave and his wife Kristen have four children; Taylor, Tanner, Tatum, and Tyler.
